

New Hearings on Buying Methods Urged

Washington, May 14.—(AP) The House Democratic members of the Senate War Investigating Committee today urged new hearings on air force buying methods and personnel.

They made the recommendation in a minority report signed by the committee's majority leader, Rep. Wm. L. McChesney, (D-Ill.) and O'Connor (Md.).

The report, which was filed in the House today, said the committee's investigation of the Hughes case, which was conducted by the committee's majority leader, Rep. Wm. L. McChesney, (D-Ill.) and O'Connor (Md.).

suspicion of the motives behind the investigation.

What's more, the minority said, "there is absolutely nothing in the evidence which discloses any fraud, corruption or wrongdoing on the part of Howard Hughes or his associates. All the evidence is directly to the contrary."

The committee conducted a lengthy investigation last year into Hughes' wartime contracts with the government for photo reconnaissance planes and a huge wooden flying boat.

Those hearings led to a more sensational investigation of the wartime financial dealings of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, former No. 2 air force procurement officer.

Meyers was later tried and convicted on charges of persuading a committee associate to lie to the committee about his sideline activities. He is now serving a 30-month sentence in a federal prison.

Light on the Mowing Problem

Memphis, Tenn. —(AP)—W. C. Wingo has whipped the problem of mowing the lawn at night. He put a spotlight on his electric mower.

But if he cut the grass at night, he'd miss his favorite radio programs. So that's right, Wingo attached a radio to his mower. "Painless mowing," he calls it.

after its dramatic critic had praised the production otherwise, "there is a type of entertainment rare on Houston's amusement menu." The Houston Chronicle stated "Mr. Thomas' direction bore splendid results." The Houston Press marvelled: "Never before have we seen such enthusiasm!"

In San Antonio the Evening News said: "One of the best evening entertainments seen here, in years." The Express stated "it is a convincing, simple, and tender... hilarious and lively."

Tom, D. C. Times-Herald that it devoted a full page of pictures to the affair, including a special interview with Gene Thomas during which the writer quoted him on his successful handling of children.

In Lufkin, Texas, more nearly the size of Hope, the Lufkin Daily News called the production "one of the most charming shows ever to grace Lufkin stages." In Waco, the Tribune, in a front-page review, began its comments with "A crowd of 1,500 laughed, cried, and cheered..."

In Alexandria, Virginia, a population of approximately 30,000, directly across the Potomac River from Washington, D.C., the Alexandria Gazette, in a column-long, front-page review, had this to say: "Between 1100 and 1200 Alexandria's clamored for the Washington auditorium yesterday and gave a thunderous ovation to the premier performance of 'Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn'."

The show was a great success from every standpoint.

In Brownwood, Texas, in 1943, 3,400 persons attended the one-night presentation of "Tom Sawyer" in that city. On its front page, the Bulletin announced that the show was "undoubtedly the most outstanding local talent production ever staged here."

In Corpus Christi, the Call-Times reported "Several hundred turned away... excellent show... the production will, of necessity, be repeated... busloads of children from as far away as Kingsville were forced to stand or sit in window sills."

In Sulphur Springs, Texas, approximately 10,000 persons attended the production, which was presented by the High School P.T.A. Stated for three performances, it was necessary to present the show six times. The News-Telegram of that city marveled at the "professional quality" of the show. This was in March of this year.

Many prominent individuals, presidents of parent-teacher associations, and superintendents of schools have highly praised the production. Tyrone Power called it "a great show." Jane Withers said "Everyone who goes will have a great time."

Her mother, actress Hattie McDaniel, former Ambassador to the U.S. from Great Britain, who said: "Everyone who attends will feel amply repaid for his or her contribution."

The production, which will benefit the local VFW post, will be staged in its entirety Thursday and Friday evenings at 8, May 20 and 21. Tickets are now on sale by members of the VFW and the VFW Auxiliary, as well as by members of the cast. Hope citizens who wish to purchase tickets at a downtown locale may buy them from LaGrone Williams at Hope Hardware Co.

The Idaho territory, which covered more than 90,000 square miles, had only a few dozen white people in its population as recently as 1880.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, the Post Office Department in Washington is setting aside the week of May 15-21, 1948, as a period of observance of the 50th Anniversary of the United States Air Mail Service, and, WHEREAS, the growth and development of air transport and the aviation industry has and will continue to be fostered and sponsored by the Post Office Department through its Air Mail Service, and,

WHEREAS, the development of an air communications system unequalled in the world has played an important role in the economic and cultural advancement of our people and our nation, and, WHEREAS, I believe that the citizens of Hope are vitally interested in the continued development and growth of aviation as it benefits the people, in the nation, throughout the world, and our relations with the peoples and nations of the world,

NOW THEREFORE, I, Albert Fink, Mayor of the City of Hope, do hereby designate the week of May 15-21 as a period to observe the 50th Anniversary of the United States Air Mail Service, and do call upon our people to take cognizance of this historic event, and by patronizing the Air Mail Service.

Done at the City of Hope, Arkansas this 13th day of May in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-eight and in the one hundred and seventy-third year of our American Independence.

Miss Dorothy Talley and Ray Charles Adam Married Sunday, May 2

Sky blue and yellow organza fashioned the gowns worn by the bride's attendants at the marriage of Miss Dorothy Wynn Talley and Ray Charles Adam, which took place at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Westminster Presbyterian church. The church, adorned with white flowers of the small variety against a background of green, was lighted with tapers. While the guests were being seated Mrs. T. C. Green, organist, and Miss Edna Brooks, violinist, gave a program of wedding music and accompanied Miss Gene Balliew who sang "Because."

A youthful, summary model of white organza, of ballerina length with bouffant skirt, square neckline, fitted sleeves and fitted bodice was the chic wedding gown worn by the bride. Miss Talley entered on the arm of her father, Lawrence E. Talley, who gave her in marriage. She wore a veil of French illusion and imported lace and carried white bridal roses and daisies.

The bride's attendants, Miss Martha Keith, maid of honor, who wore a blue organza with matching hat, Miss Anne Cody of Hous-

Coronary thrombosis, a disease of the heart, responsible for many sudden and unexpected deaths. Many people seem to be confused about this disease. Without going into technical details, it can be described as a clot which closes up one of the branches of the arteries which supply blood to the muscles of the heart.

Like every other muscle, the heart muscle must receive blood in order to function. Consequently, when this supply of blood is cut off by a clot or closure of the artery, a certain part of the muscle is deprived of its living blood and, therefore, the heart muscle cannot keep contracting as it must to maintain life.

Location Important
The severity of an attack depends on where the clot is located, and whether a large or small part of the heart muscle is deprived of blood.

It takes a long time for good recovery of the heart muscle. If the injury was not too great and enough time is allowed, a type of scar forms at the injured area. For this reason, complete and lengthy rest in bed is extremely important.

In spite of the serious nature of this condition, many recover from an attack of coronary thrombosis with practically no ill effects and can and do lead relatively normal lives for a great many years.

Most of these people who make good recoveries have been good patients. They have taken the lengthy rest period and have adjusted themselves to a slower, more restful form of life and activity than they were probably used to before.

The cause or causes of coronary thrombosis are not all understood. Now that so many more people are living to ages at which the condition is common, it is particularly important to carry out research which will lead to its eventual conquest.

QUESTION: What causes excessive sweating at night? Is this condition dangerous?
ANSWER: Excessive sweating at night can be a symptom of a serious disease, such as tuberculosis. But may be merely a nervous condition. If it occurs only occasionally, it is probably not dangerous.

ton and Mrs. Thomas V. Smelter. Beaumont, bridesmaids wore dresses of yellow organza fashioned like the bride's gown.

Richard Hall acted as best man to the bride.

Lawrence E. Talley, Jr., brother of the bride and Gilbert Adam, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers and groomsmen.

Dr. T. A. Patterson, pastor of Westminster church, officiated with Dr. David Worth Roberts, pastor of Westminster church, assisting.

After the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Talley.

White calla lilies fashioned a centerpiece for the bridal table which also held the wedding cake of three tiers in white.

Miss Mary Spencer, Miss Geraldine Keith, Mrs. Harry Bremner, assisted at the reception.

The bride's mother wore an aqua gown with small hat of pink straw and flowers. The bridegroom's mother wore blue. Both wore orchids in their hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam left on a wedding trip the bride traveling in a costume suit of navy blue crepe with white organza trim, a small white straw hat, navy blue accessories and white gardenia in corsage.

On their return they will be at home at 2341 South street. Out of town guests included Mrs. Anna Judson of Hope, grandmother of the bride.

THE STORY: Jessica Blake has almost forgotten the gay, carefree life she once knew in the drab, monotonous existence she shares with her husband's mother and sister, Lucy, while she waits for Tom Blake to return home from overseas. The only bright spot in her two-year-old daughter's life is the fact that Jessica is going to school in June of '42 to find her sleepy, southern town overrun with soldiers from a nearby camp. One of them—a tall, blond Yankee—took to following her everywhere. "He's gone on you, honey," said Mary Belle, her best friend. One day he wandered into a drug store where the girls were having a soda and Mary Belle insisted he join them. The soldier said his name was Tom Blake.

Jessica felt ill at ease, unable to meet the man's eyes. He was different from anyone she knew. He had a good nose, a stubborn chin, a big nose. Good hands, large with calloused palms. Not like the hands of Tay Hadyn. She thought of Tay's slender, aristocratic hands, of her father's long, well-shaped fingers.

Probably this man worked with his hands. Suddenly she realized she had never known a man who worked, really worked. She regarded Tom curiously.

Although he seemed ill at ease, he remained until they rose to leave. He knocked over his chair as he pushed back from the table. He followed right at their heels when they left the store and stood outside for a little while, big and blundering and self-conscious, but reluctant to leave them. The girls in their brief white play suits with bare, tanned arms and legs. The soldier in his uniform. Mary Belle giggling and amused and Jessica sober and uneasy as they finally said goodby and went toward Mary Belle's room.

As they climbed into the car and set off, Mary Belle said suddenly, "He looks dangerous. You know, I'd just as soon flirt with a baby lion."

Jessica made no reply to this. She wouldn't see the man again if she could avoid him. She would think about Tay, she decided, and chatter on to Mary Belle about her visit to her roommate's handsome brother just out of Annapolis. The tobacco plantations he would inherit, his lovely home and his family.

"Going to marry him?" asked Mary Belle directly.

"Not until he asks me. Tay isn't interested in a war bride."

Yet he had been clever enough to imply that he intended to make marriage his first postwar project. Tay. She forced her thoughts to center about him after she had left Mary Belle, and denied that the worship of this awkward Northern soldier intrigued her.

They would fit perfectly into her pattern of life. He would be so acceptable to her father, that very elegant, reserved gentleman who indulged her every whim.

I'm a terrific snob, Jessica confessed to herself.

She was limp in his arms. She cried and he held her gently, fondling her soft, dark hair with his big, calloused hand. He laughed, softly and deeply.

"You belong to me," he said. "I'll never let you go. I love you—I love you—and you love me." He ended triumphantly.

DOROTHY DIX Can This Be Love

Dear Miss Dix: What would you think if you told a college boy that you loved him and he replied that he thought very much of you, but that when he said "I love you" he wanted to be real sure about it? The night before I told him I loved him he was asking me what my idea of a honeymoon for a young couple should be, and what did I think of living in a trailer for a year or two so we could save some money?

Do you think that he loves me and is holding back to make me prove my love? Or do you think he is just another Romeo? B. M.

Answer: Nobody can look into the heart of a college boy and tell whether it is really palpitating with idealistic love, or whether he is just trying to put on a romantic act. I take rather a dim view of your case, for I think if the boy really is in love with you, he wouldn't be so analytical of his feelings. He would know how you stood in his affections.

At any rate, it seems to me that you are playing the game badly by telling the boy that you are in love with him. That takes all the pep out of the courtship, for boys especially like to think that they are the pursuers instead of the pursued.

Mere Talk
Don't take seriously his asking you your views on a honeymoon. That sounds like mere conversation, for he would be telling you and drawing a rosy picture of his feelings if he really had any intentions of marrying you at any time soon.

Certainly he is putting you to a good test of your affections when he proposes living for a year or two in a trailer. That must be love.

What might our strength be if we attained a democratic life, above and free from all racial and religious prejudice, in which the vestiges of caste and special privilege that still remain were swept away?

To ask this question is not to disparage the progress the democracies have made or to express any spirit of pessimism. Only the goals, and the God-given call to greatness, for us as for ancient Israel, are so much more than we have attained or achieved.

It is because so many in that ancient day were Israelites without guile, fired with a pure passion for Zion, that their influence was so great. And the hope of a needy world is still in the patriots' faith and vision.

Hint to Motorists
When auto hose connections are renewed, a tight-fitting pin can be had by getting hose a bit too small to be forced over the nipples of the tank and block. The ends of the hose should then be soaked in gasoline for an hour, causing them to swell enough to be slipped into place.

is stormy, unhappy and rough, no place for children to be brought up in. What shall I do? Either way is a bitter pill to swallow.

INTOLERANT
Answer: You sign yourself wrongly. You seem to have had the patience of Job in bearing with your unfortunate husband. But your problem is one on which I can throw no light. It needs the wisdom of the most learned psychiatrist to even suggest what course is best for you to follow.

Of course, drunkards do sometimes reform and without doubt the Alcoholics Anonymous have done, and are doing, a marvelous work, but the men who come back from the gutter have some core of strength in them that your poor husband seems to lack. Even the Alcoholics Anonymous warn those who ask for help that they can do nothing for them unless they have a great desire to be reformed. After all, reformation has to come from within. In the end, it is will power that does it, and if that has been drowned in liquor the case is hopeless.

You have to decide for yourself what you will do. Personally, I see no reason why a fine woman should sacrifice her whole life for the sake of a drunken sot.

ONE OF MANY

Already thousands of women, experts and beginners alike, have tried and proved an amazing canning and freezing secret that's downright wonderful. It's the secret of brighter color, firmer texture, finer natural flavor in fruits they put up—get all you do is make one simple change in your canning and freezing syrups.

Easy—yes. But you get a syrup that penetrates the fruit, through and through—plumps it up, brings out its natural flavor and color.

For full details, get the free 32-page 1948 edition of "Finer Canned and Frozen Fruits." In this beautiful book you'll also find exciting recipes, valuable tips on pickles, jellies—a whole treasury of canning and freezing information. Just send postcard to HELEN HOLMES, Dept. 5B, P. O. Spencer Tracy, Lana Turner Share Triumph in 'Cass Timberlane'

Topflight Film Opens Sunday at the Saenger

One of the topflight pictures to stem from the M-G-M studios this year is coming to the Saenger screen Sunday with the showing of "Cass Timberlane," based on the best-selling novel by Sinclair Lewis, and starring Spencer Tracy, Lana Turner and Zachary Scott in an imposing cast.

The teaming of box-office champion Tracy with the vibrant Miss Turner is in itself an exciting film event, and in this spellbinding film of a dynamic young girl who marries a staid judge, and turns his placid life upside down, these two colorful stars have dramatic material worthy of their mettle.

Stock Exchange Head Sees Slight Inflation Danger

Washington, May 13 —(AP)—Emil Schram, president of the New York stock exchange, said today that "provided we keep our heads" there is no danger of runaway inflation or a great depression.

"We have emerged from the period of shortages and unless the Congress permits the budget to become unbalanced again, I firmly believe we have already entered the postwar period of stabilization," Schram said in a statement to the Senate-Economic Committee.

The committee is studying anti-inflation proposals, particularly suggestions to restrict bank credit. "We cannot hope to attain absolute stability — it is not part of a dynamic economy," Schram said. "However, if we do not depress business psychology unnecessarily, and adopt voluntary (credit) restraints such as the American Bankers Association has advocated, I see no reason why a large volume of goods and services cannot continue to be produced and taken off the market."

Birth of Stew
During the reign of Edward II, of England, law barred "the outrageous and excessive multitude of dishes of persons of inferior rank beyond what their station requires." Different meats were cooked and served on the same plate to outwit the law, and stew was born.

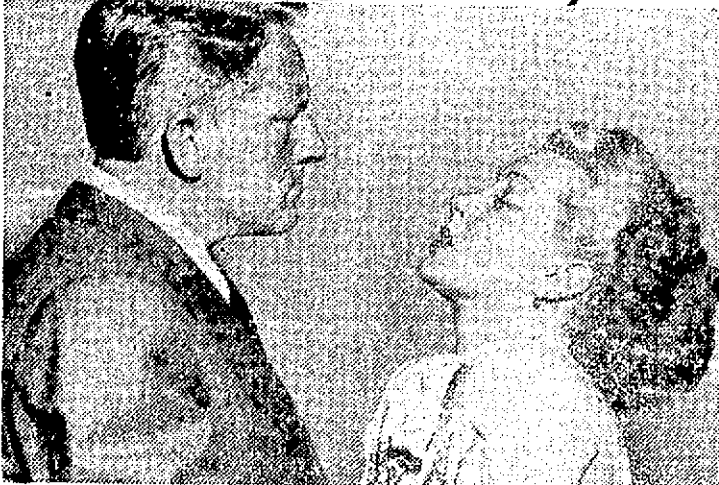

people, it is hardly necessary to go deep into the plot of Lewis' turbulent tale of married life between two people of opposite temperaments. It is all here—Cass Timberlane's first meeting with the disturbingly attractive Jimmy Marshall, his infatuation, and ardent courtship, leading to a marriage filled with a passionate devotion on one hand and doubt and jealousy on the other.

Then, in a dramatic crescendo, are pictured Jimmy's disillusionment with her husband's habits and friends, his desperate attempts to keep their marriage on an even keel, and the clashing climax in which Jimmy tries to carry away out. Tracy's portrayal of the title role is by far the finest thing he has done in years. It is at all times moving and persuasive and once again proves him to be a master of timing and acting technique. Miss Turner, as well, rises to the occasion and offers an arresting portrait of a girl who refuses to be smothered by conventions. Zachary Scott as Bradd Criley, the man who takes his loves too lightly and who brings Jimmy to near-tragic consequences, is expertly cast, and other of Sinclair Lewis' memorable characters are brought to life by Tom Drake, Margaret Lindsay, and Rose Hobart to mention just a few of the outstanding players.

Speculation on Talks Between Smith and Molotov Continues With No Sign of an End

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Argument and speculation over the conversation between Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and American Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith continues without much indication of where the end may be.

What is said to have started out as an informal and private chat between the two diplomats has both hemispheres by the ears—a development which many observers attribute to smart manipulation by Molotov. It now appears that he acted without consulting Washington in giving to the press a statement which conveyed the idea that the United States had invited Russia to a conference to discuss relations between the two countries—an invitation which the Soviet Union regarded with favor.

Naturally the announcement created a world-wide sensation, especially since it placed the United States in the doubtful position of initiating what might be seized on by critics as appeasement. Indeed, one Communist newspaper in Germany did declare that this showed America was fed up with the cold-war. Moreover, Britain and France gave indications of being considerably miffed at not having been informed by the United States about this important move.

Washington promptly denied that any invitation had been extended, although it reiterated that the door always was open for conversations if Moscow wanted them. Even President Truman took a hand in clarifying the situation, declaring that there had been no change whatever in American policy.

Then yesterday Secretary of State Marshall amplified and emphasized America's position. He stated emphatically that "this government had no intention of entering into bi-lateral negotiations with the Soviet government on matters relating to the interests of other governments." He said such discussions "must, as a matter of course, be conducted in the body charged with responsibility for these questions," an obvious reference to the United Nations.

Gradually these statements seem to have had their effect in getting the facts before a much excited Europe. The idea grows among observers that Mr. Molotov slipped across a very hot one, which might easily have put the United States in the position of appearing as an appeaser, but which has been largely countered by quick action.

One of the most extraordinary aspects of the situation is that British Foreign Secretary Bevin came to the aid of the United States with a red hot speech in parliament. Bevin reportedly was annoyed at the outset because he hadn't been informed in advance about the Molotov-Smith exchange. However, when he learned the facts he swung into action. Without mincing words he gave Moscow a dressing-down for publishing the Russian and American statements. Said he:

"If the ambassador of a nation cannot discuss quite frankly with the foreign minister of another country without publication, if he cannot do that in order to bring the parties together, then the situation is not only intolerable but peace is impossible."

Bevin declared he is "anxious for peace, anxious for a settlement with Russia." But he added that there can be no settlement until the ground has been cleared. Only the Communists, he said, are standing in the way of world peace.

So that seems to leave us about where we were before the Molotov-Smith conversation, except that Russia is assured America is ready to discuss problems through the proper diplomatic agencies.

Steelworkers to Let Board Decide Fate

Boston, May 13 —(AP)—The CIO steelworkers voted today to let their executive board decide on compliance with the Taft-Hartley law after President Philip Murray told them the major steel companies would not agree to new contracts without compliance.

The 3,200 delegates roared a voice vote that sounded unanimous to leave what Murray called "this enormous determination" to the nation's executive board.

Murray told newsmen later that the union's executive board would meet in Boston Sunday on the matter. He said he did not know whether the board would make its decision before the deadline for filing non-Communist affidavits in the Inland Steel case in a pending case involving Inland Steel.

Although the deadline for non-Communist affidavits in the Inland Steel case had been set for Saturday, steelworkers' counsel Arthur Goldberg pointed out the NLRB does not sit on Saturday so that the union would have until "probably Monday" to act in the case.

Murray said the problem of whether or not to obey the non-Communist pledge in the law has made the union's situation "extremely grave." But he pleaded with the 3,200 steelworker delegates to give their executive board "the power to make this enormous determination."

Murray charged that there has been "fading of extremely disputable nature by some CIO unions which have complied against those who have not complied."

"The American Federation of Labor has taken advantage of every single opportunity to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board to take away the rights of unions which have not complied."

The CIO president said that U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Inland, Allegheny and "the major basic steel companies have informed me that it is not their intention to renegotiate new agreements if the union has not complied."

British Press Will Let Lana Alone

London, May 13 —(AP)—Honey-mooning Lana Turner rested in the deep quiet of the Savoy Hotel today after a sort of a hectic encounter with the British press.

The British press was pretty much inclined to let her rest. The glamorous blond Hollywood film star arrived yesterday with her husband, Millionaire Henry J. (Bob) Topping, and then announced what the British Press Association called "probably the strangest and most humiliating press conference ever held in Britain."

Six reporters arrived on schedule at 6 p.m. Come back, they were told, in 45 minutes. At 6:45 they were requested to return in 25 minutes. At 7 the six were ushered through the room, said "hello folks," and vanished down the hall. Four of the reporters vanished in the other direction but two persistent fellows pursued the star. One found her in dancer Eleanor Powell's suite.

"I love the English country," Miss Turner said, according to press association's account, "the grass and trees are so wonderfully green, the tulips particularly and the flowers are so terribly beautiful."

Just about then Topping intervened and asked if that wasn't about enough. The reporters said yes, that was enough.

This morning, one of London's newspapers ignored Miss Turner entirely; the graphic printed her picture, but no story; the Telegraph devoted three paragraphs on the page to her arrival; the Mirror printed a jolly piece entitled "I'm just a poor American girl."

The Mirror quoted her as saying: "I'm just a poor American girl and I've just brought a few things to come over here with."

To which the Mirror reporter added his observation: "As we talked, stewards were carrying Miss Turner's 188 cases, containing her few things."

White House Needs to Be Fireproofed

By MAUREN GOTHLIN
Washington, May 13 —(AP)—A fire protection expert said today there's nothing wrong with the White House that a lot of fireproofing won't fix.

A. C. Hudson of Portsmouth, N. H., member of the National Fire Protection Association, said he wouldn't exactly call the president's home a "firetrap." There are so many guards around that a fire probably would be spotted without too much delay, he explained.

But still and all, he said, there are plenty of fire hazards in the executive mansion and it will take a "substantial" amount of money to fix them.

Hudson headed a committee of experts from the Fire Protection Association who gave the lower regions of the White House an on-the-spot inspection yesterday.

They were asked for an "objective" opinion on the matter by Chairman Styles Bridges, R., N.H., of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Public Buildings Committee Chairman W. E. Reynolds, who calls the White House a "firetrap," has asked the committee for $50,000 to make it safe for presidents.

Hudson said the second floor, where the president's family call home, and the first need rebuilding. A fire could start in the spaces between the walls or the ceiling and floor and become a good blaze before it broke out in the open, he said.

These spaces could be filled in with concrete for a "very substantial amount of money," he said, but without changing the appearance.

Hudson said the White House is "just like any old home — it was built entirely for appearances and not for fire safety."

But, he added, fire hazards at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue are "very well controlled" by virtue of guards, fire extinguishers and good housekeeping.

"It's clean as a whistle," he added. Hudson's group examined the basement, which he pronounced safe, and the first floor. "There were no restrictions on us and the atmosphere was very friendly," he said.

'Escape Me Never' Proves Enchanting Film

A completely different flavor and mood permeates Warner Bros.' excellent film version of "Escape Me Never," starring Errol Flynn, Ida Lupino, Eleanor Parker and Gig Young, which opens Sunday at the Rialto theater. It is the charm of classical ballet plus lyrical music which highlights the picture form of Margaret Kennedy's celebrated novel and play. "Escape Me Never" is cinema magic at its best.

Henry Blanke, Warner Bros. producer, and director Thamus Wilton, have given Thamus Wilton's screen play a tender interpretation. There is charm and laughter and more than an occasional tug at the heartstrings in the old-fashioned story of a gifted family of musicians.

Erich Wolfgang Korngold's specially written ballet music is set off by the finished dancing of the distinguished Ballet Russe stars, Milada Mladova and George Zhitov. The supporting cast is also uniformly excellent, including the performances of Reginald Denny, Isabel Elsom, Albert Basserman, Ludwig Stössel, Helmut Timm and Frank Reicher.

"Escape Me Never" takes place in Italy, Austria and England at the turn of the century, and is beautifully reproduced by the Warner studio. Art director Carl Weyl and photographer Sol Polito, as well as choreographer LeRoy Prinz, all rate bows for their particular chores.

This film marks the first time for Errol Flynn and Ida Lupino to appear together, and it is an especially bright combination. At the heart of the happy-go-lucky Venetians is captured by this duo under Peter Godfrey's feeling direction. Flynn's romantic flair is well contrasted by the studied characterization carried in by Miss Lupino. The dramatic scenes toward the end of the film are handled delicately and project that light, carefree touch which is so important to the tale.

Eleanor Parker and Gig Young complete the leading roster of players. The love affairs of the main quartet of personalities is charmingly sketched against the European scene. The Margaret Kennedy story abounds in many vignettes of lively humor, sprightly situations and rare enchantment. That is the appeal of "Escape Me Never."

Not it down as something unusual in film entertainment. It marks another Grade A attraction for the Rialto theater.

Little Rock, May 14 —(AP)—A Pulaski Circuit Court jury yesterday found Mizzell Palmer, Negro, guilty of rape "as charged," a verdict automatically carrying a death penalty.

He was convicted for an attack on a 19-year-old white woman near Little Rock last October.

Little Rock, May 14 —(AP)—Arkansas' rice harvest for 1947 was estimated at 16,330,000 bushels in a preliminary summary of the Crop Reporting Service today.

This total is an increase over the 14,240,000 bushels shown by a revised report as having been produced in 1946.

The 1947 production by counties includes: Arkansas, 4,222,000; Craighead, 892,000; Greene, 262,400; Jefferson, 840,000.

Little Rock, May 13 —(AP)—State Police Director J. R. Porter announced today a re-training school for all his officers would be conducted at Camp Robinson next week.

One half of the department personnel will receive instructions from May 16 through May 19. The other half will assemble May 19 for three days of instruction.

One entire day's program of each training cycle will be devoted to public relations work.

Little Rock, May 13 —(AP)—Most of Arkansas' 40,000 veterans receiving some type of training under the G. I. Bill of Rights will receive a hike in their checks July 1.

LANEY, EDITOR TO DEBATE
Little Rock, May 13 (AP)—Governor Laney and Harry S. Ashmore, editorial page editor of the Arkansas Gazette, will debate questions of civil rights May 28. The governor's office announced today Laney had accepted the invitation of the Business and Professional Women's Club here to appear with Ashmore at the club's town meeting.

The meeting will be in the lecture room of the Robinson Auditorium here at 7:30 p. m. It will be broadcast over Station KXLR.

The increased allowances, recently authorized by Congress, will be adjusted automatically without contact with the affected veterans, Winn said.

Little Rock, May 13 —(AP)—Company cooks and mess sergeants of all Arkansas National Guard units were ordered today to report at Camp Robinson Aug. 8 for a week long cooks and bakers school.

The school will be conducted by Fourth Army instructors in advance of the annual guard encampment Aug. 15.

Camden, May 13 —(AP)—The guests of the Ouachita Hotel, Camden's largest, were routed from their beds today by a small fire in the kitchen. The blaze was extinguished with virtually no damage. The guests left the building rapidly in their night clothes and without panic.

A cruising police patrol spotted smoke coming from the kitchen and turned in the alarm. The blaze was confined to one of the big stoves in the kitchen but it created a heavy smoke which fogged through the building.

The guests resumed their slumbers within a short time after the alarm was sounded. The hotel is a three story structure, which twice before has been destroyed by fire.

No Prospects for Settlement of Auto Strike

Detroit, May 14 (AP)—A strike of 75,000 Chrysler auto workers entered its third day today with no immediate prospects of any meeting between the disputing parties. Federal conciliators stood by to offer their services, but Conciliator Leo Kotin said, "There's not much use in any meetings right now."

Kotin disclosed that he has been in touch with the company and the CIO United Auto Workers since Wednesday's strike.

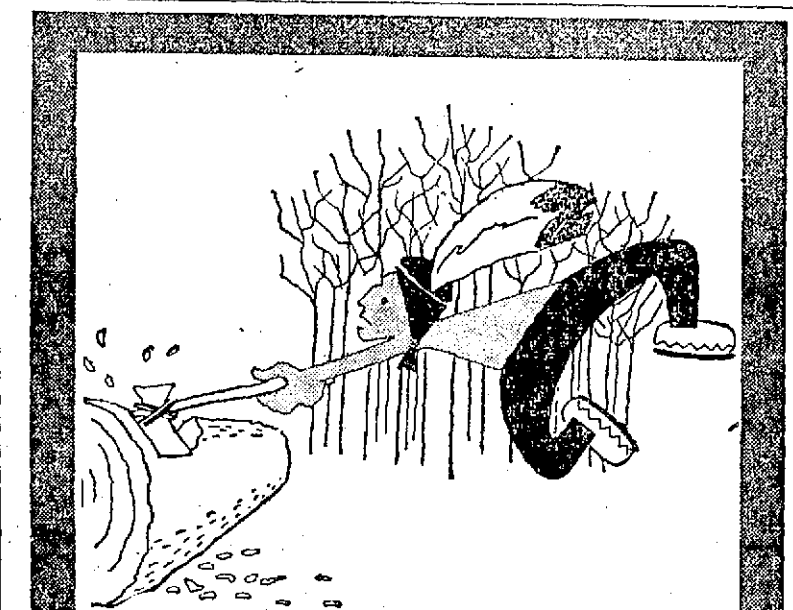

"I've talked with various officials by telephone, but there has been no meeting since negotiations broke off Tuesday night," he added.

The Chrysler workers struck when the company turned down their demands for a wage increase. Amidst increasing evidence that the strike might be a long drawn-out affair, Michigan and city officials mulled over what relief could be offered to the 65,000 strikers in Michigan.

Other 10,000 are in Indiana and California.

The UAW has already launched a program aimed at raising an $8,000,000 strike kitty by August through assessments on the 1,000,000 UAW members. And in some plant areas, soup kitchens have already been put in operation to aid pickets and their families.
